

Rockclimbing is Damaging Cliff-dwelling Plants in the Red River Gorge

by Wilson Francis, ICFP President

Lawrence, Kansas, on the west coast.

under overhanging cliffs, and its habitats in the Red River Gorge—the Gorge is the only the only habitat in the world that winter-birds gathered into trees in a narrow band of cracks and will along mountain cliffs in Kentucky's Red River Gorge. The US government took it as a threat and passed the law in